

We at BeniComp are people who, like you, are also impacted and reliant upon our nation's healthcare system. As both an organization and individuals, we are in need of a solution. With the right information and resources, we believe all of us have the power to sustain and improve our own health.

We see employers as leaders who collectively impact the healthcare of over 56% of the people in our country. That's why our purpose as a company is to work with these populations and help people rediscover their relationship with healthcare through prediction, prevention, and empowerment.

Prediction

The first step towards knowing our health risks is knowing what is currently going on inside the many systems of our body. Data gives us the opportunity to observe these biomarkers and medical patterns and will expose underlying risks that contribute to disease and illness.

Prevention

Instead of waiting for illness to strike, we believe in proactive health management. Since 80% of all chronic conditions are preventable, we operate with a clinical approach that addresses key lifestyle habits to prevent and reverse the root causes of illness.

Empowerment

We know the person who knows you best is YOU. Our promise is to support you and your team along the health journey by providing a customized health insurance strategy, one centralized management platform, a clinical team, and the data you need to make the best decisions possible.